RMS Titanic

Unsinkable

April 14th, cold as can be.

Everything seems calm and peaceful at sea.

Cruising slowly along

Making their way

Pillows are where passengers heads lay

out for there is a giant ice shove.

The captain scrambles and tries to steer the boat.

He realizes that soon it will not be afloat.

The ice pierces the ships armour with ease, rushing water flows in at 28 degrees.

People start to scurry and people start to panic, for the sea will take this ship to the bottom of the Atlantic.

Women and children will only survive the boats starts to dip and does a nose dive.

The great big ship sinks in the Atlantic.

Many are lost and go down with Titanic.

The unsinkable vessel?
